Supporting documents¹¹

When you claim duty and tax relief for items that are personal property and which each has a value of more than SEK 100,000 you need to submit documents to prove the information that you write in the declaration of personal belongings. This also applies when you claim duty and tax relief for a vehicle (whatever its value). The Customs Office may request supporting documents in other cases too, if it is considered justified.

The following supporting documents are attached

- Proof of return to Sweden
- Documents proving stay in a non-EU country due to work
- Documents proving ownership (applies only to vehicle or if the item has a value exceeding SEK 100,000)
- Documents proving use of the goods in a non-EU country (applies only to a vehicle or if the item has a value exceeding SEK 100,000)

Other information

A separate attachment with additional information is attached (refer to the heading/section to which the supplementary information refers).

Signature¹²

Incorrect or incomplete information may cause liability under the Act (2000:1225) on Penalties for Smuggling.

1 Arrived in Sweden

The day you came to Sweden to live here.

2 Non-EU country

Non-EU country refers to a country outside the customs territory of the EU.

3 Breaks for visits in the EU

When you calculate how long you have stayed in a non-EU country, you may include short breaks that you have made for visits in the EU. Breaks are considered to be short if they amount to a maximum of 72 days for each one-year period of stay in a non-EU country. If the time of one and the same break exceeds 72 days, you may not include any part of that break in the stay in the non-EU country.

4 Family

Family refers to husband, wife, registered partner, cohabitee, children or parents you live with.

5 Import restrictions

There are entry restrictions on certain goods. This means that you must have permission or that specific conditions must be met for you to import these goods. Medicines, animals, plants and certain fruits, food, weapons and ammunition are examples of goods with import restrictions.

6 List

The goods may be listed on a special form which is attached to the declaration. If you attach such a form, you must write your name and sign each sheet.

7 Household supplies

Household supplies refer to canned food, other foods, cleaning liquids and similar consumables in a household. Note that there may be special import restrictions on some of these goods.

8 Member of the household

Member of the household refers to a family member, cohabitee, employee or other person who shares a household with the owner.

9 Information on vehicles

Information that you provide regarding the purchase, delivery, registration and third-party insurance for a vehicle must relate to conditions before its import to Sweden.

10 Vehicle type

Vehicle type refers to car, motorcycle, caravan, boat etc.

11 Supporting documents

Details of your stay in a non-EU country can be substantiated by evidence of your emigration from Sweden; registration in a municipality (in a non-EU country) where you were a resident; work permit and/or resident permit; certificate from an employer; rental contract for an apartment; proof of migration to Sweden.

Information on ownership and use can be substantiated by purchase documents (invoice, receipt, hire purchase contract); foreign insurance documents; registration and third-party insurance documents in the case of a vehicle; shipping documents.

12 Signature

The copy of this declaration that you present to the Customs office must contain your original signature. Otherwise, your application for duty and tax relief will not be processed.
